

The Hollywood Museum Presents a Special Exhibit Spotighting John Williams' Film Score Legacy in Honor of 'John Williams: Maestro of the Movies' at the Hollywood Bowl

Concerts are Sponsored by the José Iturbi Foundation

Hollywood, CA (PRWEB) August 28, 2013 -- In honor of "John Williams: Maestro of the Movies" concerts at the Hollywood Bowl on August 30 and August 31, The Hollywood Museum is showcasing a special exhibit tying John Williams' ever popular music scores with costumes, props, posters, and photos from his blockbuster movies including Jaws, the Star Wars series, Superman, the Indiana Jones series, Jurassic Park and Harry Potter and the Sorcerer's Stone. The Hollywood Museum is located in the Historic Max Factor Building, 1660 N. Highland Ave. (at Hollywood Blvd.).

“John Williams is considered one of the greatest film composers of all time with a career spanning more than six decades,” said Donelle Dadigan, President and Founder of both The Hollywood Museum and the José Iturbi Foundation.

“This is a wonderful collaboration of two non-profits in Hollywood,” said Dadigan. “The Hollywood Museum, which is dedicated to showcasing Hollywood legends, and the José Iturbi Foundation, dedicated to ‘popularizing classical music one note at a time’ for public benefit. The José Iturbi Foundation is the official sponsor of both John Williams: Maestro of the Movies concerts this weekend at the Hollywood Bowl. We are proud to spotlight his legendary movie scores with this special exhibit at The Hollywood Museum.”

The incomparable film composer returns to the Hollywood Bowl to conduct many of his most popular hits, including Raiders of the Lost Ark and Star Wars. This year, Williams is also joined by Academy Award®-winning actress and LA Phil Board member Julie Andrews for a tribute to her late husband, director Blake Edwards, and to composer Henry Mancini, who together created such classics as Breakfast at Tiffany's, The Pink Panther, Peter Gunn and Victor/Victoria.

Legendary concert artist José Iturbi made his first appearance as a premiere performer at the Hollywood Bowl 50 years ago and continued to perform to sold-out audiences at the Bowl for more than four decades. “We are thrilled to create this long-term relationship with The Hollywood Museum, the José Iturbi Foundation and the LA Philharmonic at the Hollywood Bowl,” adds Dadigan.
